About this report

This report, which is tabled under section 20 of the Service Fees Act and section 4.2.8 of the Directive on Charging and Special Financial Authorities, contains information about the fees that Privy Council Office (PCO) had the authority to charge in the 2018 to 2019 fiscal year.

This report contains information about all fees that are under PCO's authority, even if some or all of the fees are collected by another department.

The information reported includes fees that:

- fall under the Service Fees Act
- are exempt from the Service Fees Act

The information covers fees set by:

- contract
- market-base, auction or both
- act, regulation or fees notice

For fees set by the following mechanisms, the report provides totals only:

- contract
- market-base, auction or both

For fees set by act, regulation or fees notice, the report provides totals for fee groupings, as well as detailed information for each individual fee.

Although the fees charged by PCO under the Access to Information Act are subject to the Service Fees Act, they are not included in this report. Information on PCO's access to information fees for fiscal year 2018 to 2019 can be found in our access to information report, which is posted on PCO's websiteⁱ.

Remissions

A remission is a partial or full return of a fee to a fee payer who paid for a service for which a department deemed that the service standard was not met.

Under the Service Fees Act, departments must develop policies for determining whether a service standard has been met and for determining how much of a fee will be remitted to a fee payer. This requirement does not take effect until April 1, 2020. This report therefore includes only those remissions issued under PCO's enabling legislation. It does not include remissions issued under the Service Fees Act.

The following table presents the total revenue, cost and remissions for all fees that PCO had the authority to charge in fiscal year 2018 to 2019, by fee type.

Details on each fee set by act, regulation or fees notice

Upon the adoption of the Statutory Instrument Act in 1972, Parliament provided the right to any person, upon paying the prescribed fee, to inspect and obtain copies of any statutory instrument that has been registered by the Clerk of the Privy Council.

For many decades and until the late 1990's, people used to physically go to PCO to review approved Orders in Council (OICs) and request copies. A paper version certified to be a true copy of the original OIC was provided to them upon the payment of the prescribed fee. However, with technological developments and the arrival of the Internet, approved OICs are systematically posted on PCO's OIC websiteⁱⁱ on the third working day following their approval and they can be accessed free of charge.

As a result, collected user fees for paper versions have consistently declined over the years; in fact, no user fees have been collected since 2013–14.
